

Another MH370 Family Seeks Answers in US Courts
Ribbeck Law Chartered Attorney Available for Comment

Ribbeck Law Chartered has filed a Petition for Discovery against Boeing and Malaysian Airlines on behalf of Lee Khim Fatt, the husband of Foong Wai Yueng who was a crew member of Malaysian Airlines Flight MH370. Monica Kelly, head of Global Aviation Litigation at Ribbeck Law, explains that the filing in Chicago will secure through the courts evidence of possible design and manufacturing defects that may have contributed to the disaster.

“Through the initial discovery process in the courts, we will obtain for the families of the victims all the facts and information necessary to prove fault and from the start we will seek to preserve the evidence in this case, including protecting the wreckage from destructive testing,” says Kelly. “We will leave no stone unturned, and successful discovery achieves the goal of setting the tone from the onset. During the initial discovery period, all documents such as design, manufacturing, maintenance records, safety manuals, internal memos and other evidence that might support the case will be collected.”

Kelly adds that all responsible parties must be brought to justice. “We must find what caused the aircraft to crash and demand that the problems with the airline and the aircraft’s design and manufacturing are immediately resolved to avoid future tragedies.”

Monica Kelly, HEAD OF THE AVIATION DEPARTMENT AT RIBBECK LAW CHARTERED, is available for comment. To schedule an interview or for more information on this case, please contact me directly.
